Shrinedom is thought of as a Fraternal, Social, and Charitable Organization: FRATERNAL in the sense of using passwords and symbols to remind the members to ever strive for inner self-improvement; SOCIAL from the standpoint of the enjoyment of good times within its own ranks; and CHARITABLE for its unselfish giving of goods and services on both the local and national level.

Our contributions include but are not limited to, the NAACP's Legal Defense Fund, the Urban League, and the United Negro College Fund. Most recently, we created a new public health program dubbed, the "National Diabetes Initiative" in December of 2008. The program institutes a major programmatic effort for the AEAONMS. The National Diabetes Initiative is hailed as a hallmark undertaking, to streamline Shrine Temple's philanthropic efforts to rally around a single public health issue that is truly vital to the life of the Nobility, worldwide.

Substantial grants are awarded to colleges annually to supplement the education of economically deprived youth, along with a program of financial aid to fight drugs, crime and delinquency
